Art, Theatre...

DR. ALAN GOWANS (chairman, art and art history) will present an introductory lecture on the Arts and Crafts movement, with illustrations, in the Education-Arts lecture theatre on Thursday, February 8, at 8 p.m. During the next two months, four visiting speakers will discuss their areas of specialized study within the movement, and the ways in which it left its mark on today's architecture and design. Arts and Crafts will be the focus of attention in the development of the University's Maltwood Museum. The first visiting speaker is Professor Quentin Bell, professor of art and the theory of art at the University of Sussex. He will discuss the Preraphaelites on February 15, also at 8 p.m. in the Education-Arts lecture theatre.

Paintings by JOHN DOBEREINER (art and art history) make up a one-man show now at the BAU-XI Gallery, 555 Hamilton St., Vancouver.

Those who have been sitting in on "theatre of improvisation" sessions every Wednesday will be particularly interested in a visiting troupe of stage-improvisers bringing their own long-run production to the Phoenix Theatre on February 8. The Play, "Daddy Violet," has been praised by reviewers in New York, Boston, and Washington, D.C. According to author-director-actor George Birimisa, audiences relish an opportunity to discuss motives and methods with the cast after the hour-long presentation. It will be given here at 12.30 and 8.30 p.m.

...and Music

Another University-sponsored concert by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra will be given on campus on Sunday, February 11, at 8 p.m. The soloist will be Nicanor Zabaleta, world-famous virtuoso of the harp. The orchestra, under the baton of Laszlo Gati, will present the following programme:

Rossini: Semiramis Overture

Handel: Concerto for Harp

J. Rodrigo: Concerto-Serenade

Kodaly: Hary Janos Suite.

The concert will be presented in the gymnasium, with no admission charge.
